2023 Report Overview

The “2023 Annual Report - Georgia Economic Highlights from Traditional and Real-time LMI” is a broad overview of the current economic situation in Georgia. A vast array of labor market information (LMI) data have been used to illustrate the current trends in employment and the forecast for the future.

Traditional LMI data from official government led programs have long been the most common standard used for measuring workforce statistics. As the world has changed and information has become readily available via the internet, the demand for more data and newer data has increased. While traditional LMI data will continue to be the gold standard, there is a supplemental data source currently available. This additional data set is generally called Real-time LMI.

Real-time LMI is labor market intelligence derived from the analysis of job postings and resumes placed into public and private labor exchanges on the world wide web. These data are pulled from a wide variety of internet sites on a daily basis resulting in the “real-time” name. These data provide a myriad of job posting and employer details that can be used to indicate supply and demand trends, emerging occupations, current and emerging skill requirements and market-based demand for education and certifications desired by employers.

Real-time LMI is becoming a widely accepted data set being used to enhance and support traditional LMI data. The relationship between Traditional LMI and Real-time LMI is being explored in this publication. It expands the horizons of labor market research regarding economic and workforce development. The Georgia Department of Labor is utilizing Lightcast as the source for the real-time LMI data.

Georgia – Top Occupations - Job Postings by Location Quotient

Real-time LMI – 2nd Quarter 2022

Postings Available = 495,810 Unclassified Postings = 17,484

This chart details the top twenty-five occupations by location quotient according to real-time job postings data.

Location quotients are the ratios of a job's local market share to the national average.

For example, a location quotient of 2 would mean a job is twice as concentrated locally as it is nationally, while a location quotient of 0.5 would mean a job is half as concentrated. A location quotient of 1 means a job shares the same concentration locally and nationally.

Georgia – Largest Growth Jobs (Requiring up to 4 Years Education beyond HS)

Traditional LMI – Long-Term Projections 2020-2030

This chart details the top twenty-five jobs with the highest number of total annual openings.

All jobs listed require completion of formal education beyond high school up to a 4-year degree.

Degree completion results in an earned certification, a license or a 2- or 4-year degree.

Note: *Denotes confidential data relating to individual employers and cannot be released. These data use the North American Industrial Classification System (NAICS) categories. Average weekly wage is derived by dividing gross payroll dollars paid to all employees - both hourly and salaried - by the average number of employees who had earnings; average earnings are then divided by the number of weeks in a reporting period to obtain weekly figures. Figures in other columns may not sum accurately due to rounding. All data represent the Annual 2022.
